Enterprise Architecture
Total Lifecycle Management

We use our reliable, repeatable methodology and our certified consultants to institute a strategic planning and governance process that reflects the changing business strategy of your evolving businesses.

To be effective, an organization's Enterprise Architecture must continue to evolve in response to today's most challenging environments, especially as it relates to changes in market conditions and growth.

With the Enterprise Architecture Center Of Excellence (EACOE) Enterprise Architecture Total Lifecycle Management service, our consultants collaborate with your organization to examine processes for updating Enterprise Architecture components, while understanding the business and responding to events that trigger Enterprise Architecture (EA) re-assessment. In the process, we enable your organization to maintain its strategic focus while periodically adjusting initiatives to ensure your resources remain aligned to your business strategy.

We assist you in developing a comprehensive strategic plan around the EA that aligns with your overall business strategy. The processes and lifecycle used ensure that your EA remains a "living" collection of artifacts and plans that are implemented and maintained as your organization grows and changes.

The EACOE Approach:

- An established EA lifecycle suitable to your business needs

- Established governance processes that consistently document your evolving business

- An established model for EA refresh

- An adaptive methodology for maintaining IT and business strategy alignment

- A "Living" set of artifacts to reflect the frequent changes and adaptations of successful organizations

- Constant focus on reducing redundancy and increasing efficiency and ROI
