IT Strategy Enterprise and Application Architecture Planning

The Enterprise Architecture Center Of Excellence (EACOE) can help align your Information Technology (IT) to your business strategy using a reliable, repeatable process and seasoned certified EACOE analysts to define, engineer, or reengineer the business processes that align to your Enterprise Architecture (EA).

PROVEN SUCCESS

Using our Enterprise and Application Architecture Planning service offering, EACOE defines, documents, and optimizes business processes that align with your business strategy and existing and future applications and needs.

Using modifications and additions to your Enterprise Architecture, EACOE designs and develops enhancing approaches to your architecture and realigns the operational processes with your future systems development, maintenance and enhancement strategy. This work product provides you with increased efficiency and reduced redundant work activities as well as higher return on investment (ROI).

EACOE can deliver superior results for your organization using a reliable repeatable process and seasoned EACOE certified analysts to define, engineer, and re-engineer your business processes, so that they align with your Enterprise Architecture. We "harvest" – minimizing business intrusion - artifacts related to materials (data), processes, and goals in addition to providing implementation models, that define and document business capabilities and processes aligned to your organization's Enterprise Architecture.

The EACOE Approach:

- Compatibility with multiple implementation models (including TOGAF, DODAF, FEA, SDDN, if desired)

- Understand of your organizational operations

- Increase efficiency and decreased redundancy

- Prioritized architecture initiatives

- Enterprise Architecture aligned with Business strategy
